Report on Duncan McPhail

Several weeks ago the Record undertook to solicit members of the Bar Association in aid of Duncan McPhail, a retired lawyer, who has been confined to a sick bed more than two years.

Herewith is the report, and the result of that campaign to date:

The total amount thus far turned over to the Record is $84.50.

Of this amount $62.50 was turned over to Mrs. W. J. Case, and expended by her for medical aid and necessities.

One item of $10 was sent direct by registered mail to Mrs. Switzer, at whose home Mr. McPhail is being cared for.

There remains in the custody of the Record $12.00, which will be given over to Mrs. Case shortly, upon her return from the east.

A friend of Mr. McPhail has approached one of the Editors of the Record recently with the suggestion that he be removed to the Colorado General Hospital, where he may be fitted with a brace, and be given such other surgical treatment as may be required. The expense has been set variously at from $20 to $30.

The Record prints this suggestion merely to inform the Bar of the status of the McPhail case, and to give friends the opportunity to do anything they may see fit.
